Facilitator may wish to use reflection questions with students individually or in groups. Below is a possible adaptation for a group activity.

ACTIVITY

After students watch the video, use the following questions to guide a group discussion with students about Glen's story.

Divide students into groups of between two and four. Assign students to answer one of the following questions in a debate style format, where each group is assigned one answer to each question. Give each group a few minutes to develop a position to argue and have each group share out.

Should schools try to compel students to become involved in clubs or other extra-curricular activities? Why or why not?

Should schools offer more extra-curricular activities with the goal to encourage students to have more opportunities to express themselves and make friends with other students? Why or why not?
